

THE WHITE HOUSE

The White House offers a wide choice of home-made food in its attractive restaurant.

(Advance booking strongly advisable)

Evening meals are served from 5pm with a two course early doors menu available if ordered by 6.30pm - and you can even stay the night as there's en suite accommodation too. For reservations, call the White House on 01745 530000 or book online at whitehouserhuallt.co.uk

ADRIAN INGRAM'S COOKBOOK

Internationally renowned jazz guitarist Adrian Ingram will be leading the band with some fiery up-tempo numbers, groove tunes and bluesy ballads, as he brings his George Benson-inspired quintet to The White House, also featuring JON TAYLOR (sax) and JADE HARRIS (vocals),

With the Cookbook, Adrian Ingram is returning to the music that originally inspired him to pick up a guitar as he offers his own take on the organ trio bands of early Grant Green, George Benson and many more.

Widely recognized as one of the foremost authorities on the jazz guitar, Adrian is a renowned player, teacher and author of several books including 'Wes Montgomery' and 'The Gibson L5: Its History and Players'.

He has accompanied many of the greats of jazz including Pete King, Jim Mullen, Bobby Wellins and Digby Fairweather, and has performed regularly at New York's Classic American Guitar Show, sharing the main stage with the cream of US jazz guitarists like Jimmy Bruno and Howard Alden. As an educator he has taught and performed alongside the legendary Jim Hall at the Hull Jazz Guitar School, and took part in the first ever North Wales Jazz International Jazz Guitar summer school events.

The highly versatile JON TAYLOR is an accomplished saxophonist, flautist and vocalist, who works both as a soloist and band leader and says his main aim is to make the music "interesting, stimulating and to create a little bit of joy!"

JADE HARRIS is a Huddersfield-based jazz singer who impresses audiences and peers alike, with Adrian commenting, "Think Ray Charles, Etta James, Nina Simone and Eva Cassidy. I can hear the same visionary quality and musical talent in the work of vocalist Jade Harris"

On keyboards JEREMY PLATT provides the quartet's driving bass lines in the classic organ style. A talented multi-instrumentalist, he has worked with an array of musicians from Snake Davis to British jazz stars Jim Mullen and Dennis Rollins.

Completing Adrian Ingram's Cookbook is PAUL SMITH (drums), a player with a deep respect for the tradition who plays with great musicality and can really swing.